

Improve Youth Talent Show

Helping Hands: 4 people

Description: Two performers enact a scene in which one cannot use his hands; a third performer stands behind the handless performer and provides his hands instead.

Party Time: 4 people

Description: Three performers (party guests) are given a random quirk, and the fourth performer is a party host, who must identify the others' quirks as the guests arrive and interact at the party.

Questions Only: 2-5 people, ability to buzz people out

Description: people enact a scene (your choosing) while only speaking in the form of a question. Failure to speak in the form of a question results in the performer being buzzing out and replaced by another performer.

Infomercial: 2-3 people, need a box of stuff to use.

Description: persons create an infomercial to sell "miracle products" for a personal problem (e.g. bad breath, baldness) using only items given to them in a box.

90-second Alphabet: 3- 4 people

Description: persons enact a scene in which each sentence must begin with the letter following the first letter of the last sentence. The performers start with a letter chosen by the audience and must go through the entire alphabet in 90 seconds.

3-headed opera singer: 3 people

Description: 3 people come together and sing a song write on the spot. They can only say one word, and then the next person says a word to make a song. Before they start you have to give them a theme and topic of the song.

Action Replay: 4, or 6 people, need headphones

Description: 2 or 3 persons enact a scene (usually with large physical movements), while the other 2 or 3 watch while wearing headphones, which prevent them from hearing what is going on. Afterwards, the second pair must re-enact the scene, based solely on what they saw.

Film Dub: 3 people, need a way to show a clip from a movie

Description: Performers must watch a clip from a movie or television show which has been muted and provide a dubbed dialogue, following the suggestion of a scene provided by the host.

Hollywood Director: 4 people

Description: 3 people improvise a scene provided by the audience or host. The fourth performer (the "director") interrupts periodically to provide new styles to be used in the scene, such as "Do it like a 1950's musical."

Impossible Mission or Improbable Mission: 3 people

Description: 2 people are super-secret agents (Mission Impossible) A third performer is the voice on the tape, who gives them their assignment: a mundane task (e.g. get dressed or mow the lawn).

Let's Make a Date: 4 people

Description: One person is the contestant on a dating type show. The other three performers are bachelors who have quirky personalities, which are revealed through their answers to the contestant's questions. The contestant tries to guess the specific personalities after one or two rounds of questions. Have to come up with personalities!

Props: 4 people

Description: 2 people enact a scene provided by the host. The other two stand in for props during the scene. The first 2 moves them around as needed.

The Millionaire Show: 3 people

Description:

Celebrity Multiple Personalities: 3 people, 3 items

Description: 3 people hold props (each prop represents a famous character) the person holding the prop must do an impression of that personality as the scene continues (e.g. "the person holding a canteen is John Wayne). The people trade props as the scene continues, giving everyone the chance to do different impressions. (the audience chooses who is best)

Press Conference: 4 people

Description: One performer acts as a public figure answering questions from three reporters at a press conference. Only the reporters know who the public figure is; the first performer must figure out who he is based upon the questions asked by the reporters.

Rapper: 3 people

Description: Choose a scene, (can choose a song as well) all 3 can only speak as a rapper, with rap lingo, and rap lyrics. (no bad words)

Multiple Characters: 4 people

Description: Choose a scene, or people, and add a disorder to them. The 3 has to act them out and the 1 has to tell them who they are and what disorder they have.

Song Titles: 2 people

Description: Two performers enact a scene, speaking only using song titles; artists and album names cannot be used. Failure to do so results in the performer being buzzed out and replaced by another performer. (See also "Questions Only".)

Stand, Sit, Bend: 3 people

Description: Three performers enact a scene, but one must be standing, one must be sitting, and one must be bent over. Whenever one performer changes positions, the others have to accommodate. A variant is "Stand, Sit, Lie," where a performer must be lying down.

Themed Restaurant: 4 people

Description: Two performers dine in an unusual themed restaurant; the other two performers display the theme as they act as wait staff.

Two Line Vocabulary: 3 people

Description: 3 people enact a scene provided by the host. One can say anything they like, but the others are allowed to say only two specific lines, provided by the host.

What Are You Trying to Say?: 2 people

Description: 2 people enact a given scene, each taking offense at the other's statements whenever possible.

World's Worst: 2-5 people

Description: people listen to the world's worst example, when they are ready they come forward and tell us about it. (e.g. "the world's worst roommate" or "the world's worst person to be stuck on an island with").

Whose Line: 2 people

Description: 2 people enact a scene (provided by the host) while including two random lines that were given to them. The lines are provided by audience members.